DSCR Prospecting Playbook

The first 48 hours decide the file

Abstract: A playbook for DSCR loan officers who work their own leads. Speed, cadence, BAMFAM, and show-rate hygiene — written for investors who value time and will take the first competent person who shows up.

The first 48 hours decide the file

This is the Waiz playbook for DSCR clients who work their own leads. No call center. No Laura. No setter pod. You — or your VA — are the system.

North star: show up like an operator, book the call while the lead is still hot, and never hang up without the next step on the calendar.

DSCR investors are not reverse-mortgage seniors. They already own rentals. They think in cash flow, equity, and deadlines. They reply faster. They also disappear faster. Ads create the conversation. You capture it. If you are late, another broker is not.

How to use this playbook

- 1. Read Chapter 01 so you stop treating these leads like seniors.
- 2. Believe the clock in Chapter 02. Speed is the offer.
- 3. Run the first 48 hours exactly as written. That is the file.
- 4. When they text back, call. Do not type a novel.
- 5. Never end a live conversation without a calendar hold (BAMFAM).
- 6. The drip is the safety net. It does not replace you.

What this covers — and what it does not

In	Out
Speed, cadence, BAMFAM, show-rate hygiene	Waiz call center / Laura — do not run both
Investor-tone word tracks	Purchase, primary residence, RM voice
If / then response rules	Full consult / close script
How the drip supports you	Invented rates, LTV, FICO, day-counts

Owner: the loan officer. A VA can dial and text. The LO owns the calendar, the speed standard, and whether a live conversation ends with a hold.

01 Why this ICP is different

These leads already own rentals. They are buying a better position on a property they already have — not a loan. Write-offs killing DTI. A balloon coming due. Idle equity sitting in a door. That changes follow-up.

	Reverse mortgage	DSCR investor
Energy	Cautious, family in the loop	Operator. Inbox is deal flow
Time	Will research for weeks	Will give you 12 minutes if you earned it
Responsiveness	Silence on Day 3 is normal	They do reply — then they move on
What hot means	Long education arc after the form	Minutes, and the first two days
What they punish	Pressure and jargon	Slowness and circling back
Who they pick	The person they trust	Whoever showed up first and sounded real Treat every new DSCR lead like a bid that expires. Not with fake scarcity. With speed.

They opted in because something is live right now. If you wait until Thursday to work leads, that file is already talking to someone else.

Same four pillars. Different human.

Availability, speed, personalization, and volume still apply. This playbook does not rewrite them. It applies them to an operator.

Pillar	RM default	DSCR self-serve
Availability	Long trust cycle; family often joins	Short call, same week, respect the clock
Speed	Important	The offer. First competent person wins
Personalization	Education before pressure	Peer-to-operator. Name DSCR. Their door.

Volume	5–12+ touches over weeks	Front-load Days 1–2. After that you chase.

02 The data — why speed wins

You do not need a speech. You need to believe the clock. This ICP is more responsive than a senior RM lead, so the data hits harder. They will pick up. They will text back. They will also take the next broker’s calendar link if you leave them on read.

Figure 1: 391% conversion lift inside 60 seconds (Velocify). 7× more likely to qualify inside one hour vs the next hour (HBR). 78% buy from whoever responds first (Lead Connect). 44% of salespeople stop after the first attempt (InsideSales / RAIN).

Finding	What it means on your desk	Source
~391% higher conversion if contacted in 60 seconds	First touch is a sprint, not after this call	Velocify
7× more likely to qualify inside 1 hour vs the next hour; 60× vs 24 hours	Same-day is not enough if you mean 6pm	Harvard Business Review
78% buy from whoever responds first	You compete with the next text, not the market	Lead Connect
44% stop after attempt one; average 1.3 attempts	Persistence is not annoying. Quitting is expensive	InsideSales / RAIN
Faster first contact → fewer total touches later	Speed is how you work less later	Speed-to-lead research

Litmus test: if you are not hearing “that was fast” at least once a week, you are late.

Three speeds. Learn the names.

Speed	Definition	Waiz standard
Speed to first contact	Opt-in → first call or text	≤5 minutes when working. Gold: under 60 seconds
Speed to first appointment	Interest → live conversation	Same day, next day, or day after. 72 hours max
Speed of response	They engage → you reply	Same hour. A text back is a call.

03 The first 48 hours

This is the file. Everything after Day 2 is recovery.

Hour 0 — they just opted in

1. Call. Now. From a number they can save.
2. If no answer: double-dial immediately. Many phones silence call one and let call two through.
3. Voicemail + text in the same breath. Who you are, DSCR refinance on a rental, one clear ask.

First SMS

[First name] — [Your name] here. Saw you came through on a DSCR refinance. I qualify these on the property's rent, not your tax returns. Got 10 minutes today? (Txt STOP to opt out)

Voicemail

[First name], [Your name] — you asked about a DSCR refi on a rental. I can tell you in one short call whether the property even makes sense. I'll text you this number. Call or text me back.

Rest of Day 1 and Day 2

Window	Move
+2–4 hours, no connect	Second double-dial. Different time of day.
Late afternoon / evening	One more live attempt. Do not spam. Do not disappear.
They reply	Stop the drip. Call them. Chapter 04.
Day 2 morning + evening	Still hot. They remember the ad.
Day 3+	Cadence tapers. Drip covers the hours you are on other calls.

What “on top of it” looks like

- Fresh leads are the top of every queue. Not after you finish this file.
- Calendar has same-day and next-day holes on purpose. Those holes are for new leads.
- Your VA can fire the first text. You own the first live conversation when they engage.

- After hours: text now, first call at 8am their time.

04 How you respond

This chapter is the operating system. Memorize the table. Use the lines.

Figure 3: A reply is a hand-raise. Calling is how you book. Do not write a paragraph.

If / then

If	Then	Why
New lead lands while you are working	Call and text inside 5 minutes	Peak motivation is a timer
First call rings out	Double-dial, then VM + text	One ring is not a work ethic

They text back	Call immediately	A reply is a hand-raise
They answer and can talk	Run the call now	Same-moment talk is a 100% show
They answer and are busy	BAMFAM — two real slots	I'll circle back is how files die
They already booked; you have a hole today	Pull the appointment forward	Sooner shows higher
Question after booking	Reply the same hour. If meaty, call	Slow replies train sloppiness
After hours	Text now. Call at 8am their time	Do not go dark on a Day-0 lead
STOP / unsubscribe	Kill everything. Honor it	Non-negotiable
They book	Kill the chase drip. Reminders only	Chapter 07

They texted. Call them.

Do not write: thanks for getting back, I'd love to learn more, what does next week look like. Ring them. If they do not pick up:

Just called — easier to do this live. You around for 8 minutes?

If they insist on texting: one question, then the book.

Got it. Is this a rental you already own that you want to refinance? I can look at it on a short call today — 11:30 or 4:00. Which is less annoying?

First 15 seconds

Peer. Not closer-voice. Not a courtesy call from the team.

[First name], it's [Your name] — you came through on the DSCR refinance. I don't want to waste your time. Is now a terrible moment?

If yes → BAMFAM. If no:

Cool. Quick version: I look at rentals you already own. Qualification is the property's rent versus the payment — not your W-2. What prompted you to look at this?

Then shut up. They will tell you write-off, balloon, or idle equity. That is the call.

Availability

- Take calls when investors actually answer — early, lunch, late afternoon. Not only 10–2 Tuesday.
- Offer two concrete times, 15-minute increments if you can. Whenever you're free next week is how you lose.
- Inbound, outbound, and a booking link. Walk them onto the calendar while you are on the phone.
- Same-day is the goal. Next day is fine. Day-after is the ceiling. Past 72 hours is an objection, not a preference.

05 Contact rate and conversation rate

These are two different problems. Do not mix the medicine.

Metric	What it is	If it is weak
Contact rate	They pick up or reply	Number health, speed, cadence, channel
Conversation rate	Once live, they stay and book	Script, respect for time, one clear ask

Contact — get them to engage

- Local / trusted caller ID. Rotate if you are getting voicemail-only.
- iMessage when you can. Blue bubbles read like a person. Green blasts read like a sequence.
- Double-dial. Always on the first two days.
- Call, text, email. Start on all three if you have them. Continue where they answered.
- Short texts. Two or three lines. Not a block. Front-load Days 1–2. Do not diagnose the lead on touch one.

Default cadence (self-serve, no call center)

When	Attempts
Day 1	Double-dial 3× across the day. VM + text on the first miss. Space later attempts by a few hours.
Day 2	Double-dial morning and later. Text after the second miss.
Days 3–4	One call + one text per day.
Days 5–7	One touch per day (call or text, not both stacked).
After Day 7	Drip + periodic manual re-touch. Stop calling like it is Day 1.

Obey TCPA, quiet hours (~8am–7pm lead local), and your state's rules. Consent was on the form. This playbook does not create consent.

Conversation — get them to stay

Once they are live, you are not working a lead. You are an investor talking to an investor.

- One idea. One ask. The ask is a short call on the property, not an application.
- Name DSCR. Do not hide the product. Do not underwrite on the first text thread.
- If they are qualified and free now — take the meeting now.
- Notes every touch. A dial with no note did not happen.

Queue when you sit down

1. Fresh (today)
2. Inbound replies — call these. Do not get to them.
3. Promised callbacks
4. Unreached, still inside the first week
5. Aged (different job)

06 BAMFAM

BAMFAM = Book A Meeting From A Meeting. You never end a live conversation with I'll send some times or I'll follow up later. On DSCR this matters more, not less. This ICP will not sit in limbo. If you leave the next step in no-man's-land, they take the next broker's slot.

Rules

Rule	Why
No I'll call you back without a hold	Motivation dies in hours

Book inside 72 hours	Sooner shows. Prefer same day or next day
Confirm while you still have them	Day, time, timezone, number you will call from
Text the confirmation before you hang up	Watch for an email means you already lost
Pull forward when you can	Same-day talk is the best show rate you will ever get
Two real options, not an open calendar	Operators pick faster when the choice is small

If they push past 72 hours, that is an obstacle to solve on this call — not permission to book three weeks out and hope.

Five outcomes (every live attempt)

#	Outcome	Action
1	No answer	Cadence in Chapter 05 — not a BAMFAM moment
2	Unqualified / wrong product	Clean exit. Do not keep them on a fake calendar
3	Qualified + free now	Take the conversation now. Best show rate possible
4	Qualified + pulled forward	Move the existing slot earlier while they are on the line
5	Qualified + confirmed	Book the soonest honest slot. Confirm. Send the text

Word tracks — investor tone

They don't have time right now

Totally fine — I'm not going to keep you. Let's lock 12 minutes so we're not playing tag. I've got tomorrow at 8:30 or 4:15. Which is less painful?

They want you to send times

I can text the link — I'll do it right now while we're on. Easier if we just pick: today at 5 or tomorrow at 9. I'll hold it so it doesn't disappear.

Pull forward

[Name], [Your name] — you’ve got us on Thursday. A slot opened this afternoon at 3:30. Want to knock the property out sooner so you’re not carrying it all week?

Confirm + save the contact

You’re set for Tuesday, 4:00 your time. I’ll call from this number. Save it as [Your name] — DSCR so it doesn’t look like spam. Texting the confirm now.

I’ll think about it

Fair. That’s why the first call is short — your numbers, whether the property even belongs in a DSCR box. Hold Wednesday at 11. Cancel if it’s not useful. Morning or afternoon better?

Do not argue. Do not pitch the loan. Book the look.

Anti-patterns

Don’t	Do
I’ll follow up next week	Book next week now — then try to pull it forward
Text a calendar link and hang up	Stay on until the slot is on both calendars
Book 10 days out as the default	Fight for 72 hours or less
Let a VA circle back with times after the call	The live call is the booking window

07 Show-rate hygiene

Booking is not the win. Show is the win. Investors no-show when the meeting feels optional or you went silent after the book.

Right after they book

Locked: [day], [time] [timezone] with me. I'll call you. If the property details are handy (address + rent), grab them — we'll go faster.

If they reply with a question — same hour. If the answer is longer than two sentences, call.

Reminders

Say the automated ones are automated. People do not mind reminders. They mind being lied to. Include the area code you will call from. Pickup roughly doubles when they recognize it.

When	Who	What
Immediately	You / CRM	Confirm time, your name, number you will call from
24 hours before	Automated	Same facts. Local timezone
12 hours before	Automated	Short
3 hours before	Automated	Short
Night before	You, real phone	One line. Human
Morning of	You, real phone	One line
60 minutes prior	You, if flaky or high-intent	Still good for :00?

If they go quiet after booking

Do not wait for the slot to no-show you. Call. One time, day before or morning of:

Still good for tomorrow at 4 — or do you want me to slide you to a time that actually works?

If they no-show: BAMFAM on the first connect. Do not send them back to the drip as if they were never booked.

08 The drip — safety net, not strategy

The drip covers the hours you are on other calls, in a closing, or asleep. It does not replace Chapters 03–06.

- Day 1 of the drip is not a substitute for the 5-minute call. If you have no human speed-to-lead, Day 1 is the first text — send it the minute they land (quiet hours).
- Any inbound reply → kill the drip. Then Chapter 04: call them.
- Any book → kill the drip. Then Chapter 07.
- STOP → kill immediately.
- One sender identity. You. Not the team, not Laura, not a bot pretending to be you.

Paste file: 10-Day DSCR Self-Serve CRM Drip — LO first person. Copy SMS into your CRM. Exit on reply, book, and STOP.

Decision board

Condition	Action
Lead is fresh (0–48 hours)	Chapters 03–04. Highest priority on the board
Day 3–7, no connect	Chapter 05 cadence + drip
Inbound text or missed call	Call now. Do not answer in a paragraph
Live, no time	BAMFAM (Chapter 06)
Live, time now	Take the meeting
Booked	Reminders only (Chapter 07)
No-show	Rebook on first connect. Do not restart Day-1 chase
Wrong product	Exit clean. Do not keep dialing
They use the Waiz call center	This playbook is not theirs

Quality bar

- Peer-to-operator. Name DSCR. Refinance of a rental they already own.
- Fast, short, specific. No just checking in, circling back, or bumping this.
- One ask: a short call on their property.
- May qualify. No guarantees. No invented numbers. Tax / entity → their CPA.
- Quiet hours and STOP are part of the craft, not extras.

What to measure

Metric	Direction	Notes
Speed to first contact	Down — minutes, not hours	Median and % under 5 minutes

Contact rate (Days 1–2)	Up	Pickup + reply. Diagnose number / speed first
Reply → call-back time	Down	Target: immediate
Booked inside 72 hours	Up	Far-out books inflate no-shows
Show rate	Up	Hygiene in Chapter 07
Lead → booked	Up	Work ethic and skill in one number
Drip reply rate (by day)	Watch	Weak Day 1 = opener or sender ID

You do not get to call the leads bad until speed, cadence, and BAMFAM have been run.
